

What other features will the website include?

Useful links to other sites and online services are provided, including links to journals and other publications relevant to the history of economic thought.

We hope to run an occasional news and views service on individuals, ideas, and events that further the aims of the project and may help to stimulate interest in archival research. The news will typically begin by flagging those entries that are either new or have been substantially revised.